Where's The Money?

(Implementing the Annual Fund for Grades K-12)

Included in this book are proven materials other schools across the country have found successful. The book will prepare school leaders to understand, beyond the routine fund raisers, there are other ways of funding school programs. The concepts of school development, building a database, writing a case statement, asking friends for support, annual giving, locating major donors and writing appeal letters are some of the ideas that are contained in this book.

Five Loaves and Two Fishes

(Assisting Early Childhood Centers with an Annual Appeal)

All centers no matter if they are rural/suburban/urban; big or small; new or old; rich or poor, have the same opportunity to fulfill their dreams. It's called a financial development program – working with people and building relationships.

Whether you like it or not, whether you are trained or not, locating additional streams of income is necessary to fulfill your dreams. This book outlines a plan to “multiply resources” which can be repeated year after year.
